You're Invited to Jessica's Birthday Party!

Dear friends,

I'm turning 18 this month, and I would love to invite you for a fun and exciting birthday celebration! This birthday party is very important to me, so I want to enjoy this special day with the people I care about the most.

Here are the details of the party:

Date: Saturday, August 20th

Time: 3:00 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Place: My house – No. 101, Harvard Street (near High Music KTV)

We'll have delicious food, party games, music, and of course, a big chocolate cake! After dinner, we will walk to High Music KTV near my home and have a singing contest, so prepare your favorite song to share with us.

Please don't give me a gift, just bring a big smile with you. Let me know if you can come five days before my party so that I can make reservations for the KTV. I am looking forward to seeing you guys soon!

Love

Jessica

In recent years, tourism has grown quickly in many popular cities and natural areas. Although tourism can bring money and jobs to local people, it can also bring serious problems. This is called overtourism—when too many tourists visit the same place at the same time. For example, cities like Venice and Kyoto face huge crowds every year. The streets are full of visitors and public transport becomes busier, making it hard for the locals to enjoy their daily lives. In natural spots like national parks, many visitors damage the land, leave trash on the ground, and scare away animals. These problems do harm to the environment and local culture as well.

To solve this problem, some cities have made new rules. Venice now charges an entry fee for tourists during busy seasons. Other places require tourists to book time slots or limit the number of daily visitors. Local people are also working together to teach tourists to respect their customs and keep places clean. If we want to enjoy beautiful places in the future, we must travel more responsibly today.

48. What is the main idea of this reading?

- (A) Traveling to a new country is always interesting.
- (B) Tourism helps cities grow without any problems.
- (C) Overtourism can affect local people and the environment.
- (D) National parks worldwide are more popular than cities.

49. How are some places trying to solve the problem of overtourism?

- (A) By charging fees or limiting visitor numbers.
- (B) By building more hotels to attract foreigners.
- (C) By shutting down all tourist spots and toilets.
- (D) By keeping tourists from using public transport.

50.

Your classmates are planning a school trip to a famous mountain area during summer vacation. However, you find out that the area was faced with overtourism last year. At the same time, garbage, damaged trails, and traffic jams were also a big headache. Your teacher asks: “How can we travel in a way that avoids causing overtourism?”

Which of the following responses from your classmates would be the best plan for your class trip?

- (A) Amy: “Visit during the busiest weekend to enjoy the great atmosphere.”
- (B) Rick: “Bring lots of snacks and plastic bottles to throw away along the way.”
- (C) Zoe: “Invite more students from other schools to make the trip more exciting.”
- (D) Sharon: “Choose a different location that is less crowded and travel in a smaller group.”
